

Developing Intercultural Intelligence for a Multicultural World

Our churches and communities are becoming increasingly culturally diverse. This presents a unique opportunity to grow understanding and unity in diversity. It also presents challenges in learning to interact meaningfully with each other.

Come along and discover a helpful framework and tools to help you interact and lead in any culturally diverse context.

Come along and learn how to develop your intercultural intelligence! As our communities become culturally diverse, we need to learn to become an intercultural learner and to find ways of understanding different behaviours and perspectives in order to grow together.

Our cultural drivers have a strong influence on how we think, speak, and act and they can be found at the root of why we do what we do.

Traditions, rules, and customs can give you knowledge about a culture, but to successfully interact with another culture, you must go beyond knowledge and into understanding. The ability to see these drivers in yourself and others can greatly aide in understanding and navigating any multi-cultural context.

This practical workshop is facilitated by Shireen Chua, Rev. Christine Harding and Hope Presbyterian Church.

We are both Certified Facilitators of the Intercultural Intelligence Framework.

You'll walk a way of a deeper understanding of culture and some practical tools to be effective intercultural communicators, leaders....
